

Humanitas Vision Statement

All Bell High School Humanitas students receive a balanced education in liberal studies. They are provided with a rigorous academic program through an interdisciplinary exploration of literature, history, languages, science, math and art. Through participation in their academic classes, school-based and local governments, as well as community organizations, students develop a strong sense of social responsibility and a commitment to community outreach focusing on social justice. Students develop skills in critical thinking and various forms of discourse including research, debate, and interpersonal communication. Upon graduation, students are prepared for success in post-secondary education, in a variety of professions, and in making a positive impact on society.
